Samsung has announced the Galaxy Note, a device that sits between a smartphone and a tablet. The Galaxy Note features a 5.3 inch HD Super AMOLED display with a 1280 x 800 display resolution. The Galaxy Note blurs the line between phone and tablet and the other device to do what Dell Streak didn't do so well when it was launched. So i'd love to see how Samsung advertises and prices this device.

To other specifications, Samsung Galaxy Note has a stylus pen that Samsung is dubbing the "S Pen" to interact with the device. It comes with an 8MP back camera, which can record full 1080p HD video and a front facing 2MP camera. It also comes with the Touchwiz interface by Samsung atop the Android 2.3 running on the 1.2GHz dual-core processor..

Pricing or release date has not been announced by Samsung but it should be released around early next year.
